Your membership makes you a partner in keeping Hawai'i Clean, Green and Beautiful

The Outdoor Circle was founded in 1912 and has been Hawai'i's leading organization for protecting the beauty of Hawai'i ever since.

Early Circle members are responsible for the planting of many of O'ahu's largest and most recognizable trees. We helped establish many urban green spaces including street trees, public parks, and gardens. The organization is perhaps best known for banning billboards throughout the islands in 1926. Throughout the years, The Circle has expanded its scope to include green space protection, view plane preservation, tree advocacy, and other issues that impact the quality of life for our residents and visitors.

We have been instrumental in establishing both Hawaii's Environmental Court and Trees for Honolulu's Future, and continuing to fight to keep advertisements out of our public space in the form of intrusive signage. Our work continues today as we fight to stop trees being cut down all over the state, expand use of the Exceptional Tree Program, encourage undergrounding of electrical lines, fight legislation that threatens our environment and views, encourage responsible development, and encourage planting of trees through our branches many tree giveaways, and governmental liaising.
